Dedication

To Our President

George Norlin

Who has safely piloted the University through the stress of war, and whose personality and executive ability have won for him a place in the hearts of all friends of the University, we dedicate this, the 1919 Coloradoan

Dr. Arnold J. Lien

A students' favorite—absent on War Work.

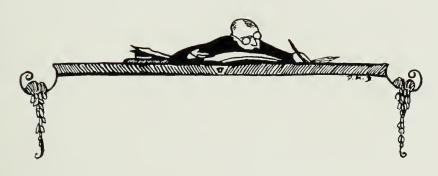

Milo S. Ketchum

A students' favorite—who rendered exceptional service to the nation in War Work.

Foreword

If, in after years as you turn these pages, your thoughts recall the many happy incidents of your college life, then we will feel that our ambition has been realized.

How can we count the many times We have so often lain within The shadow of thy twisted arch, Breaming dreams of things that are, Times that were, and days that will be.

Aross the quiet lake, And builded upon a hill Where all men may see, Stands that beautiful "In Memoriam:" "Marky."

High up above the timber line The cool take mirrors rugged peaks, Behold the view, almost sublime, Such as the weary traveler seeks.

"Old Main!"
For the past; A memory of work well done.
For the present; A Mecca of a thousand dragging feet.
For the future: "There was a veil through which I might not see."

Always, waiting as a reward For those who venture, Is a mirror of silver blue; Reflecting, and set amongst, The monuments eternal.

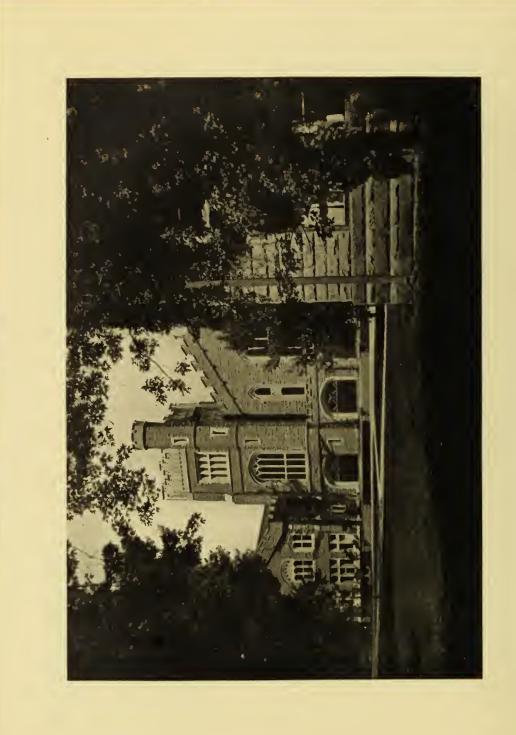

To know those statutes, Man-made for man's Own wayward feet, And to possess in books All knowledge, Must ever be the wonder And the privilege of our age.

The whispering pines: Black against the sunset sky. A little lake nestling among the hills Reflecting the roseate heavens:--And man's dreamland stage is set.

School of Medicine

The school of Medicine of the University of Colorado was opened in September, 1883. On January 1, 1911 the school was united with the Gross School of Medicine in Denver and the last two years work was transferred to Denver because of the superior clinical facilities available. The first two years now constitute the Boulder Division of the School, and the last two years the Denver Division.

The School is a member of the Association of American Medical Colleges.

Major James A. Merritt, U. S. A.

When the Reserve Officers Training Corps unit was established at the University of Colorado in the spring of 1918, Major James A. Merritt, then ranking capitan, was assigned as the commandant of the post. Major Merritt carried out his duties in this capacity most satisfactorily, and, when the S. A. T. C. unit was established here last October the Major was detailed as commandant of the new post. At this position he worked unceasingly and succeeded in placing the U. of C. unit among the best in the country.

Major Merritt is strictly a military man, having been in the service since he was sixteen years of age. He is a veteran of the Spanish-American War and is now on the retired list. To the men of the unit he is known as a competent leader, a master of military tactics, and a true man,

In October, 1918, owing to opinions differing with those of the administrative authorities Acting-President Norlin, Major Merritt tendered his resignation as instructor of Military Tactics in the University, and applied to the War Department for release from duty at this post. These requests were granted and he was succeeded by Captain Burr A Beard.

When the first Vocational Section was detailed to the University for training, Captain Burr A. Beard was assigned as commanding officer of that unit. At that position he made many friends, and proved himself so efficient that upon Major Merritt's release from duty as commandant of the post, he was detailed to fill the place.

Captain Beard began his army career early, enlisting as company clerk in the 35th United States Infantry at 18, and serving in the Philippines during the Spanish-American war. During that time he received a commission, but resigned it in 1901. After holding several executive positions in the Philiprines he returned to this country and studied law at George Washington University

At the beginning of the European War he attended the second officers training camp at Fort Sheridan, Ills., receiving the third captaincy given there.

Before coming to Boulder Captain Beard commanded companies in the 89th and 355th divisions at Camp Funston.

Capt. Burr A. Beard

Military History of the University of Colorado

P

EACE reigned supreme in the University of Colorado until the declaration of war in 1914, when schools all over the United States began to awaken to the fact that the young manhood of the country knew nothing about the fundamental principles of military training, and some remedy should be found. The result of this was the establishment of troops of state militia in the various universities over the country.

The first military organizations appearing in the University of Colorado were the familiar old "Troop D" and Company B, which first made their appearance soon after the war was declared in the fall of 1914. These squads, if they may be so designated did efficient, conscientious work that year, and when the Mexican trouble broke out in 1917 they were all transferred to the border. Many of them made names for themselves there, and after the quelling of that uprising, they were retained in active service, and most of them were finally sent overseas. As all other Colorado men, they gave the best they had, some even giving all they had, and are not without honors due them. Practically every man went over received a commission, the old troop finally rising to a group of company and batallion commanders. So runs the story of the first Colorado U's military organizations—heroes every one and true men among men.

In June, 1916, Congress passed an act which provided for the establishment of units of the Reserve Officers Training Corps, in the principle institutions of higher learning throughout the United States, provided they were found to be adequately equipped for the service asked of them. The larger universities accordingly made application for the establishment of units, and, after government examination, were provided with the necessary equipment. Commanding officers were detailed to the various units, and training began in earnest.

Troop "D"

The University of Colorado was among the first to have the new unit, and was on a strictly war basis by the middle of February. Captain James A. Merritt, U. S. A., retired, was placed in command of the new post, and over four hundred men were soon under arms. Government uniforms were issued and rifles were purchased, one half of the cost of the latter being met by John A. McKenna, one of the loyal supporters of the University. The curricula of the school was also changed to permit of the addition of several war subjects such as, airplane construction and operation, automobile construction and operation, wireless telegraphy, military mapping, etc. Besides these subjects there were courses on international law, governmental ideals, and the history of the war and its causes, which were open to all students. The personnel of the unit was organized into six companies, and

and the regular close order drill was begun. Instruction was given in all the phases of infantry work, and the men speedily became versed in military tactics. Captain merritt performed his work efficiently, and by the end of the term the Colorado University unit was recognized as one of the best trained detachments in the United States.

On April 25, 1918, the need of trained mechanics being felt, the University entered into a contract with the War Department to instruct National Army Training Detachments of two hundred and fifty men each in vocational subjects. The first detachment arrived on May 15, composed of Utah men. Captain Burr A. Beard was detailed to command the new unit, and he soon brought the contingent up to a high standard. The men were quartered and messed in the state armory, and were given their special school work in the Engineering Department of the University. The special apparatus needed for the radio instruction and other new subjects was installed, and at the end of their two months of training, the first contingent was well fitted to cope with the engineering problems they were to meet.

The Armory

On July fifteenth the second contingent arrived. This section was made up entirely of Colorado men, and they were to be instructed in approximately the same subjects as the Utah men. They had their eight weeks of intensive training, and were then detailed to other camps. The majority of them were sent to various Officer's Schools as instructors, but those sent over for foreign service gave an account of themselves such as all Colorado men give. On September second the University entered another contract with the government, this one providing that between November 15, 1918, and June 15, 1919, approximately nine hundred men should be trained in vocational subjects, but the sudden close of the war caused the War Department to cancel the contract. Prior to the signing of the armistice, however, the first contingent of this detachment was in training here for about eight weeks. This unit was composed of Montana men, and they were given the same sort of training received by the former detachments. After the formation of the S. A. T. C., the vocational section became one of the battalions of the regiment stationed here.

As the need for trained officers became more and more insistent, the government decided to make the fullest possible use of the universities, and in consequence developed the plan for the Student Army Training Corps. Accordingly, when the University of Colorado opened for work on October first, 1918, those who had known the place in former days scarcely recognized at as same school. It seemed that veritable thousands answered the call, and the campus was as lively as a bee-hive on a summer day. But this time it seemed that the male applicants had the women farther outnumbered than ever before. This year the U of C was going to be a man's school; yea, even more a soldier's school. For as soon as the husky young fellows completed their registration, off they hied to the recruiting office in Woodbury, there to offer themselves for service. The end of the week saw most of the fraternity houses under the control of this new army, and unceremoniously being converted into replicas of regular army barracks. These places were stripped of everything movable, and truck-loads of army cots with accompanying mattresses were transferred to their interiors. Every man quartered in every house was assigned to a certain cot and all the floor space within two feet of it. In their new homes the men gradually stiled down to a regular routine with a certain time for every task.

The University, knowing of the inadequacy of the available quarters for the men had already begun the construction of barracks which were to accomodate approximately four hundred men, and which were to contain two mess halls and kitchens with a capacity of fifteen hundred men for each meal. Work began about the fifteenth of September, the site of the new buildings being the ground on the east side of the Colorado a n d Southern tracks, just across from the University station. Meanwhile, a silent hand of pestilence was gaining hold in the ranks of the new men. of carpenters were kept on the job, in consequence of which, the structures seemed to rise almost like hallucinations from the fog of unpreparedness. So efficiently was the work carried out that by the end of the first week in October quarters were ready to receive the men. camp had taken the dreaded disease. The Sigma Chi house was turned over to the hospital corps, but soon finding this inadequate, the Alpha Tau Omega house was also annexed. Things became worse; army doctors were unaivable so civilian physicians and nurses were employed, finally the vocational men were moved from the armory to a tent colony, and the armory, too, was put to use as a hospital. When things had reached this stage the University closed down, and all classes were discontinued. The men in the various barracks were thinned out and moved to other quarters until an increased individual floor space was obtained, which it was thought would assure more sanitary and healthful conditions. But even these precautions proved inadequate, and the companies became so badly depleted that it seemed as if the whole camp would be overcome by the first of November. Nineteen deaths resulted before the epidemic was controlled.

The physical welfare of the men was carefully considered, and everything was done to keep the men fit for the work they were required to do. They took as active interest in athletics, playing baseball and football, boxing, wrestling and doing track and field work. During the Flu ban the men were taken to Gamble field every afternoon, and there in the open air witnessed boxing and wrestling matches, baseball games and track meets. An inter-battalion baseball tournament afforded a great deal of sport, the Third

Battalion succeeding in carrying first honors. After the epidemic the companies turned their attention to football, and several games were played between companies. After the series was completed, it was found that

The Vocational Unit Officers

Company M, the Gobs, had defeated every contender for the camp title, so they claimed the championship. In the big regimental track meet, Company I carried away first honors. Besides these sports, every Wednesday morning there was an inter-company and interbattalion contest in drilling and in various games. The honors in these events fell in various directions, each company getting its share before the final review.

Along with the athletics and other recreations, the Army Y. M. C. A. performed a wonderful amount of good. The Colorado Union building was generously donated for the use of this organization, and there was established a reading room, a recreation room, and a place where the men could write their letters. Dr. Donald McFayden was appointed Secretary, and assisted by the Reverend R. P. Taylor, an old football star, he accomplished a great deal of good. Religious services were held every Sunday, clergymen from various churches officiating. Along with this work might be classed that of the Reverend Roy W. Hamilton, chaplin of the unit, who had charge of the mass singing of the regiment. The idea of singing soldiers was not a new one, and certainly proved its value. Weekly meetings were held, at which singing and yelling were indulged in, and soon the companies were using the marching songs to good advantage.

The Y. W. C. A. cooperated with the Y. M. C. A. in conducting a Hostess House during the Flu quarantine. It was first conducted in the Woman's Building, but when that was needed for other purposes, the location was changed to the president's home. This afforded the men a place where they could meet their friends and enjoy a general good time. Entertainments were given there, and the new men were made acquainted with the other University folks, it being the only place of the kind which was open on the Hill during the quarantine. But with the passing of the S. A. T. C., the Hostess House disappeared from University life, and like so many other war measures, became only a memory.

By the middle of November, a shipment of uniforms and the equipment of the Naval unit arrived from San Francisco, and soon there-after the Gobs were fitted out in true Gob style, their queerly cut "whites" and equally odd-looking "blues" making them conspicuous among the kahki glad figures that frequented the campus. About this time Captain Burr A. Beard succeeded

Major Merrit in command. Captain Beard was a man of wide military experience, with great executive ability, and held the unit up to the high standard set by the Major. The Fourth Liberty Loan campaign came along then, and the men responded very liberally, the average subscription being made by any army camp in the United States, and the boys were justly proud of it.

As fas as the Officer's Training Camps were depleted by the transferance of men to overseas service, and as the camps were enlarged to accommodate more men, requests were sent to the various S. A. T. C. units for quotas of men to be transferred to the different camps. The first contingent men transferred from this unit was ordered to Camps McArthur and Hancock, leaving Boulder on the 9th of October. Shortly after on the 15th of October, another detachment was detailed to Camp McArthur. On the 26th, two men were sent to the Coast Artillery School at Fort Monroe. Va., and on the 31st a final quota was sent to Camp Zachary Taylor, Kentucky. Several other contingents were detailed to Aviation Schools and to other training camps, but owing to the sudden cessation of the war, the assignments were all cancelled. the epidemic, when the news that the armistice had been signed came into camps. Of course there was a wonderful celebration, just as there was all over the world, but the majority of the men here were sadly disappointed at their failure to get into active service. On the day of the signing of the armistice, the regiment participated in a victory parade. The whole populace of Boulder and the surrounding country was in town, and cheered the boys as they marched.

From then on the men naturally began to lose interest in things military. During the first week in December an order came stating that all members of this unit were to be discharged by the 23rd day of December, and that explicit orders were to follow. The disbandment was met with a great celebration on the part of the men, but the Regimental Staff decided that there should be a grand final review of all the troops quartered here before the disbandment, so preparations were made for it. The drilling was resumed, and in the course of the next two weeks the companies regained all their old form in executing squad, platoon, company and battalion movements. The day of the final review came. The crowd gathered; the hour approached, and the companies were marched into position. The band began one of the usual military marches and the column got under way. Marching in their most pretentious manner, the companies fell into place, and marched past the reviewing stand, each man marching as if he had just returned.

By the 23rd of December all the men of the unit, with the exception of the Naval Reserve men, had been given their final discharges and were completely severed from the service. The sailors were given their preference of remaining in the service and being transferred to another camp or of being given releases to inactive duty, for the purpose of continuing their education. All but five of the men of the unit chose inactive duty, and they they were released from the service on the 24th.

Thus it was that the great military movement accompanying the war came to the University, and thus it was that before the coming of the new year, it again silently stalked away, leaving behind it many memories, pleasant and unpleasant, and many other things of more lasting nature. Should the necessity ever again appear the U. of C. will rise to the occasion, and will do her part just as loyally and as willingly as she did in the near past.

The 1918 Team

When Coach Mills took charge of the football team last fall, he had an exceedingly difficult task ahead of him. Practice did not start until one month later than usual; it was the first team the coach had to work with at the U. of C.; many of the University's athletes were in service; and others were leaving at an alarming rate.

Coach Mills

Military duties in the S. A. T. C. and studies besides did not leave much time to be devoted to football. Inoculation at the hands of army medical officers hampered the progress of the team for a while and then on top of all these other obstacles came the influenza plague, and so it was all season, one drawback after another.

However, the new mentor did not become discouraged and moreover, he kept up the courage of the loyal players who stuck with him to fight it out.

Classes, in former years, were resumed about the first of September but last fall the facilities of the University were being used in training a contingent of Montana men for the army and the fall cession did not start until the first of October. This meant a loss of a full month of practice from the best of the season.

Practice finally seemed to be going along quite smoothly, for a change, until one afternoon a number of the men did not report for practice but instead they were standing around the side lines watching the other players. Upon inquiring why the men did not have on suits the coach learned that they had been stuck with a little needle manipulated by one of Uncle Sam's physicians, and they had been cautioned to go easy for a few days. Within the next two or three days practically all the players had to suspend operations for a short while in order to give their arms a chance to heal up.

Les Eastman, who captained the team and directed its operations from the quarterback position, was the only letter man back in school that the coach had to help him in the development of the new men, during this turbulent season.

Strain

Eppich

Belcher and Savage gained good experience on the freshman team the preceeding year and their ability at playing the big college game was evidenced thruout the season. Schrepferman, Brown, and Weiss did not go out for freshman football during their first year but when they did go out for the first team last fall all made good.

These men, Eastman, Belcher, Savage, Schrepferman, Brown, and Weiss formed the nucleus around which the new mentor had to construct the football machine.

The drawbacks of the late start, old players gone, inoculations, influenza, etc. were largely compensated for by the presence of a number of exceedingly good freshman such as Robert Strain, Bill Lord, Carlin Allen, Karl Eppich, Charles Shapiro, Lee Willard, Robert Muth, Ted Williams, and D. Dowis.

The first practice game of the season was played with the lieutenants of the S. A. T. C. many of whom had considerable experience in high school and college football. The second practice game was with the State Normal school and this struggle took on the aspect of a real conference game. Greely won 9-0 by making a touchdown and a safety. From the time of the kick-off it was apparent that the teams were evenly matched and during the entire first half neither side scored. In the second half, the Silver and Gold men seemed to rally and they came near scoring several times but usually when they would approach dangerously close to the scoring line a fumble would eccur. One of these fumbles resulted in a long run for Greely upon recovery of the ball by a Greely man. This put new life in the teachers and a few more plunges carried the ball over for a score. Their safety was also made on a fumble.

Denver University was Boulders first opponent in the Conference race and this game was a real heart-breaker. The only score of the battle was made by D. U. in the very beginning of the game when McLaughlin carried over a pass from Gibson. From then on, Mills' men had the advantage of Denver but they could not evade the Minister backs for a touchdown. Varsity had possession of the ball most of the time during the last three quarters and they even kept most of the fighting in Denver's territory.

Time and again the State would plow close to the Denver goal only to lose the ball on downs or a fumble and then the Ministers would kick out of danger. This cycle of action went on to the end of the game. The Silver and Gold was not quite strong enough to score and Denver feared to try and run the ball down the field but instead resorted to kicking out of danger. The visitors policy was not to add to their own score but rather to use all their strength in preventing Colorado from scoring. Eastman, Allen, Savage, Brown, and Belcher had important roles in this game while Gibson, Anderson, McLaughlin, and Garsuch played well for D. U. but they were all worked hard.

Brown

On Thanksgiving day the Silver and Gold had reason to be thankful for during the clash that afternoon the Colorado Agricultural College team fell a victim to the Colorado eleven. Altho it was miserably cold for football the men stood up to the grueling contest and made it replete with thrills.

Savage

During the play captain Eastman received a bad kick so that he could not carry the ball himself during the remainder of the game but his general-in directing the team steered the players on to victory. Savage made the the first touch-down of the game. For a few minutes the play was mostly in the middle of the field when Allen intercepted an Aggie pass and was not downed until he was only a short distance from the goal. The play was then exactly reversed in that an Aggie intercepted a pass and carried the ball to the 5-yard. line. Colorado held like a stone-wall for the first two downs but the Farmers were successful in their try and this tied the score but it was not long until the 'Varsity players again took the lead.

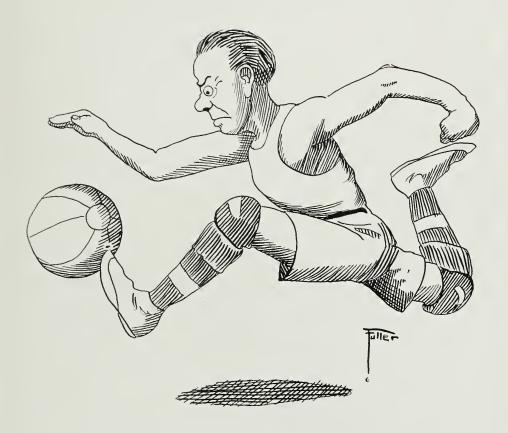

Both teams scored again and battled evenly with a tied score until near the end of the time and Eastman decided that the balance could be swung by having Schrepferman kick a field goal. Eastman worked the ball up to the 35-yd. line and Chet tried for a goal and missed. After a series of plays Colorado was again ready to kick, this time from the 45-yd. line. The line braced up and held and after the ball was snapped into action Schrepferman's educated toe sent the ball squarely between the goal posts and this kick won the game by a three point margin with a 16-13 score.

The standing of the teams has always been a riddle. This is the rating that was given by some of the local critics: Mines, Greeley, University of Colorado, Denver University, Colorado College, Colorado Agricultural College.

(Capt.)

The call for candidates brought out about thirty men. Most of these had had some high-school experience. But there were so many, and all about on par, that it required a month's work by the coach to give all a fair try-out to show their possibilities. During this first month the squad was taught passing, foot-work, and the "inside stuff" that counts so much toward the polish of a team.

Just before the first game the coach selected ten men from which later he hoped to develop the team. The ten men selected for the squad were: John Burke, captain; Les Eastman of the 1918 team; Chet Schrepferman; Lee Willard; Bob Breckenridge; Geo. Nelson; Ray Savage; Alex Allen and R. Graeber. The men were drilled in a definite system of play; and during the drill they began to show their own particular and peculiar ability along certain lines. "Never before," said coach Mills, "have I had so many styles of peculiar play as the men exhibited." Every one of them was good along some particular line, but on the whole they displayed about ten styles of basketball. And while this feature might be somewhat puzzling to opponents, it made good team-work quite hard to develop.

The individual qualities of the men were marked: John Burke at forward was a good captain, and he played under difficulties at all times because of an injured ankle. John, as all know him, is not large of statue but he is shifty and fast afoot. His speed, turns and dodges made him a hard player for opponents to cover; and yet his aggressiveness of defense was always a good example for his team-mates to follow.

"Ole-Les-Eastman" as the fellows call him (age not considered) was shifted about from forward to center and back to forward. Les has a quick shot at the goal which he uses at all times; and he made good use of his height in the scrimmages under the goal. Les was always in the scoring; and in this respect he faced difficulties because opposing teams frequently sent in a crack guard to stick to Les like a long-lost-brother, and this prevented him from getting as many goals as he would have had it other teams had feared him less.

Take Chet Schrepferman, scrapper. Just about enought mentioned. Coach said, "'Schef' is a natural-born scrapper; cocky enough to make good on any team; brains and head-work always in evidence, and a man who 'gets' a new idea at once."

The canny Scotchman, Jim Brown, was "always there." Jim was as steady and as sure as an old veteran. And a better guard has not been seen during the whole season. Jim is quiet, sure, a hard worker, a good fighter and will certainly have an undisputed place on the All-State team.

Lee Willard was one of the new men who "came out" quite rapidly. Starting with the squad Lee soon developed until he was shifted up with the "possible" ones for the team. Then when the early games came along he made good at every opportunity. His speed at all times was discouraging to opponents; and when he employed it to full extent no guard in the conference was able to keep up with him. As a result Lee at times "ran wild" in the games scoring goal after goal from the field. Another man who has earned a place on the All State Team.

Bob Breckenridge: the emergency man of the team. And every game found Bob in the fray too. Coach used Bob as the "safe" man, putting him into the games at crucial moments like "pinch hitters" are used in baseball games. Bob always delivered the expected results too. "Breck" has the best disposition in the world. Nothing ruffles him. He always came back with a grin. His bounce-pass and peculiar style of play caught opponents off guard and made his play for the team efficient.

Schrepferman

Willard

Ray Savage "came out" rapidly. The only reason he was not in more games was that he was a guard—and of guards the team had many good ones. Ray covers his position rapidly and has a quick return pass that makes his work at guard very effective. He's the sort of fellow who gets the ball and knows just where and how to pass it out of danger. He's another example of scrapper who goes in for all he's worth and who has been of great value to the team.

Alex Allen at guard was always aggressive, and he has the size and disposition to develop into a "regular." His steady work this year has given him valuable experience and great things are expected of him on the 1920 team.

R. Graeber developed into one of the fastest forwards in the state. He has so much speed that it made his goal shooting difficult. Always on the move, aggressive, a good jumper and a hard worker. With speed a plenty and the disposition to match no doubt Graeber will be among those present on the first five of Colorado in 1920.

The team as a whole was remarkably well balanced. It had more speed than any other team in the Conference. Was good on offense and defense. Had the best passing game of any of the teams and had five men who could all shoot baskets. One of the features was that no one man, or two, or three were counted on to do the scoring—for all were accurate. When the Colorado offense started it developed a whirlwind attack that no team in the Conference could check. The point was that the men worked so fast that no humans could hold the pace; so their games were a series of spurts. If any team pressed them—they started the whirlwind attack that carried opponents off their feet. Perhaps no better example of this attack was seen than the scoring of eighteen points on C. C. in twelve minutes; meantime holding that team scoreless for the period of the attack.

On March 10th between twenty and thirty men reported for practice. Eight letter men were on the field, consequently the preliminary cage work went on smoothly. The assembling and coaching of a ball club without battery men in sight was no easy manner.

"Ham" Beresford was elected captain and under the direction of Coach Bob Evans, the team worked as smoothly as if they were just off their spring training trip.

Preliminary games were played with the Semi-professionals in Denver and many of the high schools, Colorado winning each contest.

Letter men reporting to coach Evans were Ham Beresford, captain, "Chuck" Brown, "Midge" Morley, Ray Burlingame, "Doc" Maier, Earl Langdon, and Russell Murphy.

A squad of new material came out, among whom were "Jim" Brown, "Chet" Schrepferman, Ray Savage, "Heine" Winter, Carl Samuelson, Dyche, "Andy" Clarke and "Sonny" Seeburg.

The greatest problem that the coach had to face was the development of battery material. There was no catching material that promised to develop into such a backstop as Eddie Evans had been. Savage, with his fight and "cornerlot" experience, soon gave the most promise. "Henie" Winter was

Jim Brown, a good clown ball player, covered the field in veteran style, but showed his real class at first. "Andy" Clarke's slants were always an asset to the Varsity.

Ham Beresford, captain, three years on Varsity, crashes them when the bases are drunk. Chuck Brown, a running mate to Beresford, good fielder, played only as real ball players play. "Midge" Morley, covered third station in clever style. He was a dangerous man with the willow. Doc Maier, covered center field, a station where all speedy ball players are placed. Fight, pepper-to-burn, a real ball player is Doc.

Track

Colorado's only real rival in track and field events last year was the Agricultural school at Fort Collins and in the Conference track meet the 'Varsity was nosed out of first place with a very narrow margin by the Aggies. Colorado was easily ahead of all the other schools in dual meets as well as in the final test in Denver when the athletes were in splendid shape after a whole season of training.

Cap't. Elect Breckenridge

The first practice meet of the year was the Intermural meet which opens the track season every Spring and this beginning is always a good indication of how the men will perform thruout the season. Hiram Wolff won the half mile in this meet and Brickler easily took the two milegrind. Birch Snider came out first in the broad jump and in the mile run. Bill Kelty won the high and low hurdles and Joe Praeschek starred in the weights, beating all comers in the shot and discus. Naylor won first in the century and second in the 220. Count Fulghum hurled the javelin further than anyone else and in addition won numerous other points. Ray Oldenburg was the individual star of the meet winning the high jump and the pole vault and collecting several second and third places. Chet Schrepferman and Bertram Tisdell ran up high in the point gathering contingent. Drix Henderson was an easy winner in the 440 and Ray Burlingame starred in the dashes winning the 220 and getting second in the 100. Sigma Phi Epsilon had more points than any other fraternity due mainly to the scoring of Oldenburg, Fulghum, and Henderson. Delta Tau Delta came next in the fraternity list with a well balanced team and Sigma Chi took third with the points of Naylor and Kelty. Sigma Phi Epsilon won the relay as well as the meet.

A few weeks after the Intermural, the track and field men traveled to Little Lunnon to meet the Colorado College team and there they swamped the C. C. men on their own field, nearly doubling the score. Coach Evan's men won the majority of first places and wound up the contest by also annexing the relay race.

Colorado took a lead over the Tigers by getting first and second in the initial event, and from then on they simply swamped C. C. in both track and field. The meet started out with a 100-yd. dash which Burlingame won with Naylor close behind him. Next came the high hurdles which Schrepferman easily won. Hughes of C. C. finished in back of Chet giving the Springs her first points. Colorado took both scoring places in the low hurdles with Burke first and Schrepferman second.

R. Burke

Schrepferman

The Tigers stronghold lay in the middle distance runs. Bickmore and Cheese took all the points in the half-mile and mile for the Springs, but when it came to the two-mile Brickler won the long grind for the 'Varsity. Sanders gave Boulder first place in the 440.

Altho Colorado won six out of eight places on track the scoring in field events was more nearly even. Shaw took the high jump for C. C. and Honner, another C. C. man, won both the discus and Javelin. Maier, Reed, and Breckenridge, were first place winners for the 'Varsity in the broad jump, pole vault, and shot. Adams, Noggle, Snider, and Sanders were on Colorado's victorious relay team and the winning of this event piled the Silver and Gold score up to 76 while the Tigers assembled 48 points.

The next sojourn of the track men was to the athletic field of the Colorado Agricultural College where the Farmers were met in a dual met. All the events were contested on a wet track and a muddy field while the men endured the cold winds in their abreviated track suits. The meet was finally given to Aggies by the narrow margin of a single point, after many places had been disputed by both teams. In some cases, no agreement could be reached and it was necessary to tn events over. All these diplomatic difficulties on the side

Maier

lines. by the officials, as well as the battling of the men on track and field was due to the poor condition of the grounds. Both teams undoubtedly suffered misfortune time and again on account of sprained ankles, stretched tendons, and bad falls on the muddy field.

When it was time for the intercollegiate meet in Denver, all the schools in the Conference realized that the meet would be won either by Colorado or Aggies since these teams were undoubtedly stronger than any of the other aggregations represented in the meet. The meet was won by Aggies, with Colorado second. Colorado College, Mines, and Denver University were the next three to finish. Colorado's fast relay team came out a winner in the relay.

Besides the relay, 'Varsity won five other ribbons, in the persons of Burlingame, Brickler, Breckenridge, Shaw, and Maier. Burlingame finished third in the 100, second in the 220, and first in the 440, the further he ran, the faster he went. Brickler only entered one event but he did justice to it. He won the the two-mile jaunt. First in the shot-put was taken by Breckenridge. Breck is an expert at throwing the lead pill. Captain Shaw finished up his fourth year representing Colorado in the field by hurling the discuss for its longest journey during the meet. "Doc" Maier placed in the broad-jump and won the high-jump. Aggies' victory in the meet was due to Hughes and Bresnaham. Bresnaham won two first places and Hughes, who is a brother of the Aggie coach, took the 100, 220, and 220 low-hurles. Cheese of Colorado College broke the tape in the mile and half-mile runs.

The old men who are still in school are Sanders, Naylor, Snider, Maier, Shaw, Kelty, Fulghum, Markey, Tisdell, Schrepferman, White, and Burke.

Momen's Athletics

1918-1919.

FOREWARD MARCH! Miss Bunting's command has been taken up by the rank and file of the Women's Athletic Association.

The Spring season of Women's Athletics closed in 1918 with Tennis and Archery tournaments. In the fall of 1918, athletics did not materialize because of the liberal distribution of "Flu" germs around the Campus. The work of the Winter Term consisted of elective and required gymnastics, elective dancing, and basketball. During the second term, plans were made to introduce golf as a sport. Rifle shooting and swimming are now under consideration as additional sports.

One of the most progressive steps taken by the Women's Athletic Association was the adoption of the point system. This system has been in operation for two years, and has proved very successful. Under the old system, only the members of the winning basket-ball team were awarded "C" sweaters. These are now awarded to students earning one thousand points. Arm bands are awarded for each additional two hundred points.

In addition to gaining points in the well recognized sports such as Archery, Basketball, Baseball, Tennis, and Track, a student may also earn points in elective dancing and gymnastic work, in hiking, or by holding an office in the Association. Recognition is made of honors won by awarding additional points

Not only does the point system offer to all an equal chance of winning a "C" sweater, but it also encourages women students in every branch of women's athletics.

JESSIE GOUDY Head of Basketball

Baskethall

More than usual enthusiasm has been shown in Basketball this year. Many girls turned out far practice, making it possible to pick good teams. The Freshman and Sophomore classes showed exceptional ability.

At the beginning of the season, first and second teams were selected from each of the classes. An interclass tournament was held and two games were played between each class. The champion team was presented with a loving cup Those players making first place were awarded class numerals. At the end of the season the best players from all the teams were chosen to form the "All Star" team.

Hiking

In the summer of 1917, hiking was introduced as an Association sport. The girls were chosen to act as authorized leaders of the tramping parties, and a head of hiking was appointed. Schedules were made out for long and short hikes, in order that all girls be nouraged to join the ranks of the enthusiasts. Since then the hearty support of a large number of girls has been enlisted, and every week there are parties leaving Boulder for the closer points of interest. Points for the association sweater are given for walking.

Hiking as an association enterprise has a three-fold aim: it seeks to promote good fellowship among the women, to develop a more intimate understanding and appreciation of the out-of-doors, and to give opportunity for recreation.

This year, Edna Schiller is head of hiking and the hike leaders include Mary McLucus, Jean Macfarlane, Dorothy Shoaf, Viola Coombs, Vera Jones, Eulalia Bell, Laura Selvy, Gwendolyn Curtis, and Annette Claer.

Last Spring on the east end of the Campus, about twelve girls participated in a competitive Archery Tournament. Hazel Proffit captured first place. Edith Ware and Alice Burrows followed closely, taking second and third.

Much enthusiasm has been shown in this form of girl's activity and a large number of girls have signed up for elective archery this year. Owing to the May Fete, it is doubtful whether or not the Tournament will be held this year, but in the meantime we hope to develop many good archers for future matches.

Margaret Knox Head of Archery

Trunis

The singles in the Spring Tennis Tournament were won by Julia Loser, who defeated Elsie Eaves in the semifinals and Ellen Nelson in the finals. The games were very interesting and the players evenly matched. In the doubles, Harriet Shaw and Elsie Eaves won over Julia Loser and Ellen Nelson. Altho a large number went out for Tennis, mixed doubles were not played on account of war conditions.

Independent League

Donald Tippett (President)

Irma Reed (Vice-President)

"The purpose of an independent organization in the University of Colorado will be to promote a spirit of cameraderie among all the students of the University, to provide a social life for those students who are not members of fraternal organizations, to foster a feeling of partnership in all activities among new students, and to further individual effort in all school interests. This organization will in no way seek to create antagonism towards any existing society on the campus, but will rather endeavor to promote better co-operation through effective consolidation of heretofore non-enlisted talent.

Because the need of such an organization has long been felt in the school, it is up to the students to lend every ounce of effort to the promotion of the success of the enterprise and to push the true aims of the association with an ever increasing supply of pep.

The Booster's Club

HE Boosters Club was organized on December 7, 1916. Its object, as stated in the constitution, is to promote in all ways the best interests of the University of Colorado by uniting all students, alumni, and faculty to that end without regard to personal, political or fraternal interests. The officers and personel of the Club are given below.

Among the important works of the Boosters this year should be mentioned the entertaining of 400 high school men, guests of the State "Y" Convention, at a Banquet and Vaudeville; the successful staging of the Second Annual High School Basketball Tournament; the entertaining of the Denver High School seniors at the Annual Denver Party; and the Colorado message to the high schools of the state, as carried by the "Boosters Larger Committee."

The Momen's Ceague

HE first that Nancy Ellen, Freshman, ever heard of the Women's League was on the day in the autumn of 1918 when she went to a big reception, given in honor of the new girls in the University of Colorado. Everyone spoke of the Women's League, which was giving the tea, in such matter-of-fact way that she disliked to ask just what it was. Her opportunity came, however, a few weeks later with a jollylooking sophomore, who called on her for Women's League dues.

"What is the Women's League, anyhow?" asked Nancy Ellen, "Am I supposed to join?"

"Oh, all the girls in school belong," explained the sophomore. "You see, it's the organization that binds them together on a democratic basis and helps them get acquainted and into school activities. It was founded fourteen years ago by Mrs. Baker, the wife of our former president, and it has been a huge success. I'm sure you want to join," added the sophomore persuasively. "The dues are only a quarter, and they entitle you to vote at the spring election".

"The election?"

"Yes, the election of the president and the board. The board has a member from each sorority and as many independent members. They conduct the business and get up the entertainments. And such entertainments! Although we probably can't have "the" party or the annual dance this year because the time is so crowded already, there will be all kinds of fun. You mustn't miss the vaudeville or the masquerade ball—and, oh yes! The May Fete is coming!"

Of course, Nancy Ellen joined the Women's League. Later, she had a part in the Vaudeville, and, at the same time, came to know many delightful girls. Not long after that, she and her chum began to plan their costumes for the Masquerade Ball, although that was a whole quarter away. When the long-awaited night came, their costumes took the prize. They had the maddest, merriest kind of an informal good time, and went home, exceedingly weary and contented with life in general and with their sister students in particular. Then the May Fete! Nance Ellen was the most enthusiastic freshman in preparing for it, and worked indefatigably on her committee. She felt amply rewarded for her labors when the great event took place in its glory and a substantial addition was made to the Women's League Building Fund.

Nancy Ellen's Chum was working her way through school, and didn't have much time for such activities. Sometimes it was hard to make ends meet, and even to keep going at all. At one particularly discouraging time, she was about to give up school, when someone told her of the Women's League Loan Fund from which she might borrow money at only 3% interest, repaying it any time after her graduation. This was a great encouragement, and enabled her to finish her course.

And so the Women's League turned out to be the Fairy God-mother of Nancy Ellen and of her chum, and likewise of every girl in the University.

Because of the element of uncertainty that prevailed in all student ornizations at the beginning of the school year because of the war, and revised programs to meet war conditions, it seemed best that instead of having a class for men and a class for women as has been the plan in times past, that we have one class for University Students. This plan worked splendidly for a time, but with the demobilization of the S. A. T. C. it was asked that the class return to the old plan. This resulted in added interest, and a larger attendance has been the result.

Of the several things which we might mention that are in themselves significant of the work being done, none is more so than the fact that among the two hundred Methodist students of the University, twelve have placed themselves on record as expecting to enter some definite form of Christian service as a life work. This does not include a number of others who are considering the great Christian program as a life investment. An invitation to visit or enroll is extended to all who are not already connected with a similar organization.

Profanity Fair

HESE gentle souls, true beauties of rare design, deserve to fare somewhat better in the pages of this section than to suffer the fate of violets that bloom to blush unseen. So, by the way of condolence, we run them in the little consolation boquet across the way. Bless their hearts. Girls, we ask you, aren't they nice? Of course, the fellows will think so, but a woman's the real judge. Honestly, is there a one of them to whom you could say otherwise than that you'd be a sister to her? Behold our little liberty belles, historic relics of a mighty day gone by. Genuine? Certainly. They're sure 'nuff cracked. We just photoed them from the best side, such as it was.

Nice old thing, that Williams woman. She's barrels of fun. And that oldest of all living schoolgirls. Jacqueline Reynes, childishly talkative and pettish, but still spry as a girl of sixteen. And that sweet Miss Kelty! The lady with the giraffe head rack? That's our Hooty; and Josephine Markey isn't any moose, at all. She's a peach. And bless our editorial soul! There's Harriet Herman. She was the plumber's co-ed editor of the S & G. Remember Ray Savage? Not a bit. She's just as gentle! And that little blond, Billie Davis and the little brunette, Miss Morrison. Stuning nine, what? Big leaguers in any beauty contest, even if the stupid students didn't vote for them.

We're sorry about Miss Wells, the Keeley girl, and that Greek goddess,—what's her name—Spencer, sure, awfully too bad their pictures didn't arrive in time.

The Delta Gammas love it, the Kappas aren't above it,

The Pi Phis are so haughty,

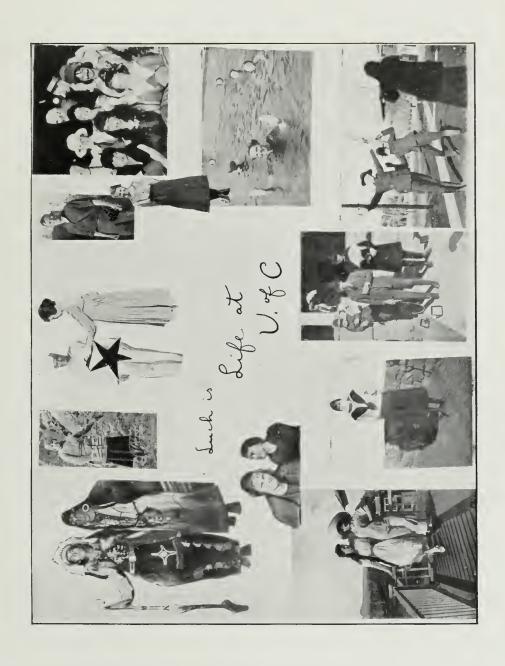

That they say it's very naughty,

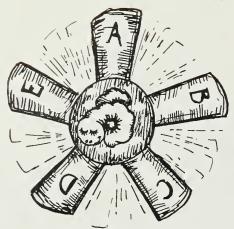

But you bet your boots they do it on the sly.

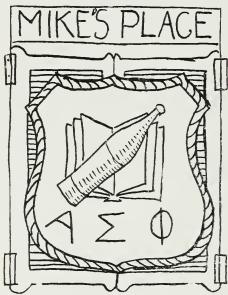

Secrets

SIGMA NU

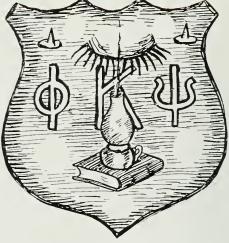

A fraternity with a past: Small, select—selected quarterly by the Deans and the Registrar acting together. There are three active members now and their chief ambition is to become as hard as Bloody Campbell. The Colorado chapter was installed for the purpose of initiating Chuck Adams.

The Sigma Nu pin is a windmill. So is Chuck.

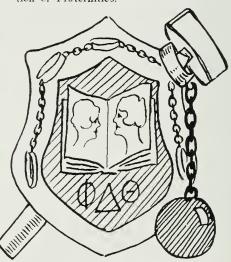

ALPHA SIGMA PHI

They are often afflicted with the Froesing sickness and the odor of Lindberger cheese. They may be picked out by the open door, the swinging gates or their need of haircuts.

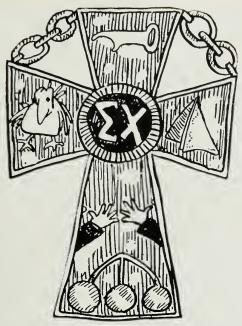

PHI KAPPA PSI

Whatever it is, it was founded at Jefferson College during a typhoid epidemic. A splendid example of what may result from a delirium. In the center of their shield, Battle size, is an eye, closed in slumber, Below is an oil lamp of early date resting on a closed volume of the Arabian Knights. They number among their most famous alumni Woodrow Wilson who believes in the abolition of Fraternities.

PHI DELTA THETA

A rough gang. Always trying to get arrester by shooting revolvers in front of the Co-Op. They also seem to enjoy moonlight, or should we say flashlight rows on the lake.

SIGMA CHI

A group of boys with a future. Their aims and ideals are illustrated by their pin. They live in an old hospital, something considered a privilege last winter. Dick Downing is a good fellow. We decided not to mention him.

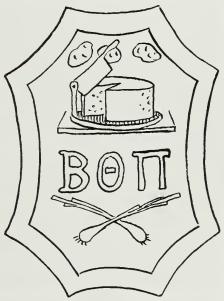

SIGMA PHI EPSILON

Sorry we can't waste the space exposing them.

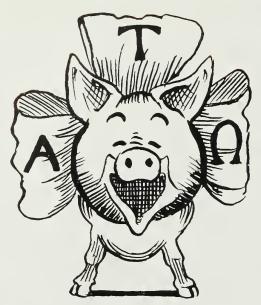

PHI GAMMA DELTA

"Fastideousness generates depopulation." With a barn-shaped pueblo accommodating a hundred, they have been forced to look to the Boulderado register for pledges, and have adopted the motto "Every Ford Owner a Phi Gam."

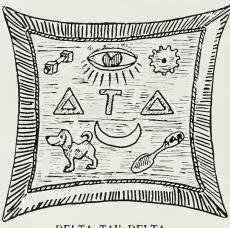

BETA THETA PI

A description as given by the boy with the big glasses. We part our hair from east to west, Of social waves we form the crest. Humpty dumpty diddle dee, We're the boys sorority, Beta Theta Pi.

ALPHA TAU OMEGA

A. T. O. stands for every thing from aqua to amonia and implies a liquid form of organization. Fond of firesides and need motherly care.

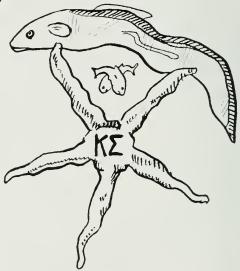

DELTA TAU DELTA

Said to have been founded by Peter the Hermit during a fit of dissatisfaction after the First Crusade. They maintain a home for the friendless in Boulder taking in ten or more inmates annually. One of the primary prerequisites is that a canidate be able to make loud sounds of exuberance like a baby mule might make in the early morn. Their pin is a sort of a cushion shaped slug which indicates that Delta Tau Delta is a soft place to get into.

SIGMA ALPHA EPSILON

It is a question whether there are more steins in the Sig dining room or in the Menorah Society. The steins, like their owners have entirely outgrown their usefulness.

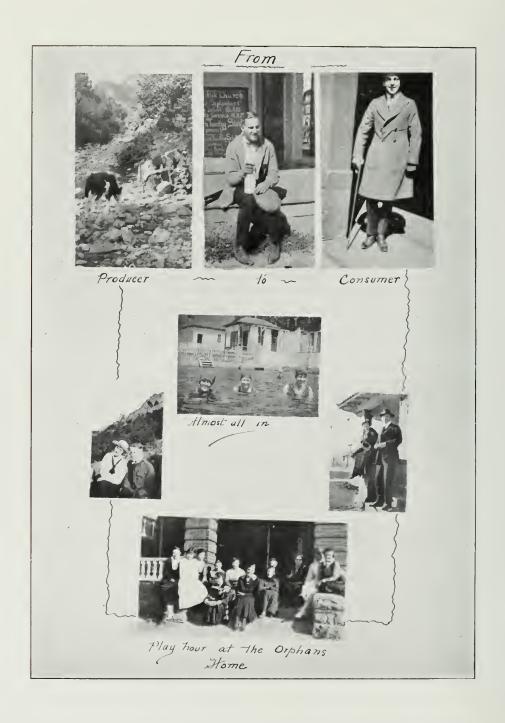

KAPPA SIGMA

The ultimate aim of Kappa Sig is to have a chapter wherever there is an Irish police force. Their sole religion is that of self advertising. Even the sky bears their trademark. Pins at Woolworth's cut glass counter.

Dearest:-

The great love I expressed for you is fake and my indifference for you increases daily. The more I see of you, the more you appear in my eyes an object of contempt. I feel myself in every way disposed and determined to detest you. I can assure you that I never intended to marry you. Our last conversation has left an impression on my mind which by no means convinced me of the high standard of your character. Your temper would make me entirely too unhappy and, if you and I were united, I would expect nothing but the contempt from my friends added to the displeasure of living with you. I have a heart to bestow, but do not imagine that it is at your service, for I could not give it to anyone more inconsistent and capricious than yourself and be capable of doing justice to myself and family. I think you are aware of the fact that I speak sincerely and you will do me the favor of avoiding me. You need not trouble about answering this letter as your letters are always full of impertinence, and you have not a shadow of wit and good sense. Believe me-I am so adverse to you that it is impossible for me to be

Your affectionate sweetheart

When the final page is printed and the last damp ink has dried;

When the binder has compiled each sep'rate leaf;

When this book has reached the campus twixt these covers there will hide Cause for self-congratulation, cause for grief.

Grief for some—but they're not many—whose fine features don't appear Mid the comedy and tragedy herein.

Joy for others who discover that darn snapshot isn't here-

That the censor—bless his heart!—has saved their skin.

There'll be others not so lucky, with fell murder in their eyes

As they find their blackest fears were all too true,

Who will curse the boob who stated that the camera never lies;

Our poor kodak sleuth will have his troubles, too-

Dirty sneak! This from the damsels. (Censored) That from frenzied youths:

Who the (censored) ever saw me in that dress!

Are there eyes in campus tree-trunks? Are there ears in Co-op booths? How disgraceful is such freedom of the press!

Not So Bad this Month

"Now, that's better! It's the first time the figures haven't given me a horrid feeling.

"If I'd only known sooner about Jell-O and some of the other money savers, I'm sure I'd have more dollars now and fewer wrinkles."

(Note—Just see the wrinkles.)

There are a good many young women and older ones too who are wasting money and time making desserts and salads of materials that cost more, require more time and effort than Jell-O does, and then are not half so good.

Jell-O is made in six pure fruit flavors: Strawberry, Raspberry, Lemon, Orange, Cherry, Chocolate, and sold by all grocers at two packages for 25 cents.

An Appreciation

The publication of a Coloradoan is a pleasure. It is made so because of the splendid co-operation of the student body. To the staff of the 1919 Coloradoan belongs whatever credit may be due the volume. The editor is willing to assume the blame.

Had it not been for the splendid and consistent work of Miss Ernestine Block, Miss Laverne Langley, Mr. Darl MacBoyle, Mr. Max Blom, and Mr. Norman Fuller, this edition of the Coloradoan could not have been made possible.

Much credit is due Mr. Henry Page for his assistance in the makeup of the entire book.

Miss Hardy and Miss Nelson were always to be relied upon for dependable work.

We owe a debt of gratitude to Mr. Snow for his splendid photographic work in the book and for his personal interest as a friend of the University in the publication. To the Palace Studio for their untiring work in our behalf and for the their many accomodations we are very grateful.

Last but not least we realize that the many helpful suggestions of the publishers, Hammersmith-Kortmeyer Co., have aided in no small way in helping to make the book what it is.

Editor.

SUGAR

History has associated sugar with jungles, slave owners, all the dark and noisome mysteries of the cane fields, the enervating life of the tropics.

Why should it not instead be associated, like the pure white energy—giving Crystal it is, with the clear, cool air, the snow white—sparkling peaks of the Rockies, the bright sunshine and the activities of the free American farmer of the Great West.

The business-like modern industry of Colorado—beet sugar producing.

You Get More Than Clothes Here

When you come to us and buy a suit or overcoat—or anything else to wear—you get a good deal more than clothes; but you don't pay anything for this "more"; although it's almost as important, maybe more important than the clothes.

The part you don't pay for—the "more"—is a positive assurance of your satisfaction guaranteed or your money back.

We're really not taking much of a chance in such a guaranty,—the clothes take all the risk, when you see name in a garment, you needn't have any anxiety about the quality or the service you're getting. You'll be satisfied, and if by any chance anything goes wrong, we'll make it right in anyway you say.

Specialize If You Would Succeed

Judge Elbert H. Gary, for several years president of the two billion dollar corporations of the world, the United States Steel Corporation, says that this is the golden age of opportunity for young men.

He says, "This is an age of vast co-operation, of machinery, and enormous mills and factories, where armies of men labor under the efficient head of trained specialists."

The keynote of his advice is, "The boy or young man who hopes to outstrip his fellows must specialize. If he does this, and has intelligence and industry, there is hardly any doubt his success in life."

Add to your college training this summer or next winter a thorough knowledge of business subjects. Then start with a good business firm and climb.

We will give you the training and get you the position.
